EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

WHATEVER else the Chicago Convention accomplishes, it has secured the party against all future efforts to rule it by its minority. The bosses have done this service, and they made future bossing forever impossible.

A BIG telegraph war of the utmost severity seems to have just been inaugurated. If it is not soon terminated, as such conflicts generall are, by the larger corporation swallowing the younger one, the people will enjoy a long season of cheap telegraphy.

KANSAS, or at least most of it, is being soaked through and through with rains which will banish the dreuth and put an entire new face on things. Business had already begun to feel the effects of the prospective failure of crops, but a change is now inaugurated and Kansas is herself again.

SENATOR VOORHEES uses the Senate Chamber for a full dress rehearsal of his speech for the next presidential campaign, and gets the speech printed at the Government expense. Nobody will read it now, so that when he reproduces it a few months hence it will be entirely fresh. If he would always speak when the country isn't listening his popularity would increase.

IF Tilden intends to capture the Cincinnati convention it is time for for him to begin work. Two-thirds of the delegates have been chosen and he is the choice of only a small portion. All his friends ask now is that the convention offer him the nomination and allow him to decline it. The party is mighty afraid, though, that if Tilden gets a grip on the nomination he'll not let go.

THE New York Times has a long editorial on the habits, personal appearance and mental peculiarities of the crow. The Times may be instigated in this by a simple and laudable interest in ornithology, but we fear that there is a deeper reason under it all. There certainly is a time coming when a great many persons of both political parties will have an intimate gastronomical acquaintance with the bird.

THE Rochester Union gets off a specimen of first-class impudence, whatever else it may be called. In speaking of General Grant it says, that if he will throw his influence on the side of the Democracy, and aid in restoring it to full power, "he will in due time receive the recognition which is his due—restoration to the head of the army of the United States." The editor of that sheet must be in a deplorable state of mind.

THE gavel used by the presiding officer at Chicago, is made from wood taken from Lincoln's home, the handle being a cane grown on the Mount Vernon estate. It is a handsome souvenir for Senator Hoar to carry home with him. It is not the only thing the Senator has earned on the platform of the convention—he has been a most excellent presiding officer, has done justice to all sides and commanded the respect and confidence of the whole body of delegates.

The Convention and Its Work.

The great battle is over, and the Republican party is saved from even the possibility of defeat next fall. More than that, there is no chance for temporary dissatisfaction anywhere within our lines. Some casual disappointment there will be with those who had set their hearts upon individual candidates, and have used their best endeavors to insure their selection. But when these men turn from their wrecked hopes to consider what has been put in their place, they cannot but see that all is as it should be, and they will, no doubt, in time conclude that it is even better than their wishes. Such we believe will be the final decision of every sound-minded patriot.

There would have been more or less bitterness in case of the nomination of either of the prominent candidates at first before the convention for the chief place on our ticket. With General Grant there would have been the bugbear of a third term, which, while we do not regard it as of much consequence in itself, yet it would have its effect, and we fear a very serious one, upon the vote. Worse than that, was the belief, constantly becoming more manifest, that he was being urged by certain leading men, determined to succeed for their own purposes, and in defiance of the wishes of a majority of the party. No candidate would have been more heavily weighted than Grant, notwithstanding his brilliant record and distinguished merit.

Blaine had less to contend with, and we still believe he deserved to be President of the United States. We doubt not, however, that he will be quite as happy without it, and hope and trust that the country will not for many years, lose the benefit of his invaluable public services. But he, too, was too soon a prominent candidate not to have many bitter political foes, and we fear this enmity may have followed him into the campaign, perhaps to the detriment of our cause.

Gen. James A. Garfield comes before us, without a single objectionable item in his record or his character. Prominent as a soldier, he deserves much from the country for his war record alone. But he has by no means been found available chiefly because of his military services. It is in civil life, as a statesman, that he has won his highest distinction. That is, as respects reputation, for we are assured that when he is better known it will be found that he has still higher claims, as a man, of the highest and noblest mental and moral qualities. He is eminently popular wherever he is known, and

None know him but to love him,
None name him but to praise.

He was nominated on the thirty-sixth ballot, General Grant receiving at the same time 306 votes to 399 for Garfield. This was nearly Grant's full strength, so our nominee owes nothing to the third-term managers. Yet, we have no fear that all will not unite heartily to help elect our unsurpassable candidate by an overwhelming majority.

WASHINGTON.

Special Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3, '80

Probably no other city in the country, except Chicago, takes so much interest as Washington in the Republican convention. The Congressmen—what few remain here—are so excited over the result that attention to public business is out of the question. The telegraph offices are crowded night and day, and to see the amount of advice or direction sent over the wires one would think the few lonesome politicians who remain here really had the control of the convention's action. One circumstance that tends to make Washingtonians take unusual interest in this campaign is the fact that our population is largely made up of government employees, and they look with apprehension at any action at Chicago that may tend to deprive them of their places. The friends of Blaine in the departments expect favors should he be elected; so also do the friends of Grant and Sherman, and all are anxious that a candidate be chosen whose election is certain, or they may all get the "grand bounce." On this latter consideration there is complete harmony among the friends of the rivals. In speaking of Presidential aspirants I shall take this opportunity for giving voice to a question asked here frequently by true Republicans and those who have the success and harmony of our glorious party at heart. It is, Can there not be some means devised for nominating a candidate, whereby the intense feeling and bitterness that have characterized this canvass can be avoided? Some action of this nature would certainly be desirable. There is no denying the fact that the recent conflict in the Republican National Committee caused many Republicans who rise above personal strife to tremble for the party's safety, and the joy of these men when the despatch arrived announcing peace, is beyond the power of any pen to describe. In unity there is strength. In Republican unity there is victory. "Let us have peace."

Congress is moving along slowly towards adjournment. In fact, this week Congress has taken a back seat in the public attention. The day now set for adjournment is June 15. But no one seems to care whether it is June 15 or July 15. The House is struggling over the general deficiency bill. Although the Democrats promised not to attach any of their revolutionary "riders" to this bill, when it was presented—sure enough, there was the "rider."

The contest will not be settled probably until the Republican champions return from Chicago. The Senate passed the river and harbor bill yesterday, with largely increased appropriations. The Democrats charge that this bill is simply a Republican campaign fund, but still they vote to increase it, and then to pass it, which action speaks for itself. PHIL.

Chicago Convention—The Contest for a Candidate.

CHICAGO, June 5.—The bitter and protracted struggle of yesterday, lasting, as it did, until three o'clock this morning, has left its impress upon the delegates, and there is an evident desire to get down to business and finish up the work to-day if possible. Perhaps the bad blood worked off in the heated and angry discussions last night may leave the convention in a more amiable mood to-day. The Blaine men are full of bluster, but careful and unbiased observers all agree that even if possible it would be political suicide for the convention to nominate Blaine. The same feeling also exists with reference to Grant, although his backers appear willing to take the most desperate chances. It is generally believed that the colored delegates have been seen and that at the right time there will be a big break to Grant and his nomination put through with a hurrah. This opinion largely prevails, and there may be more foundation for it than is generally known. The concluding sentence in the speech of Emory Storrs, at midnight in the convention, was significant, and has put new life in the Grant men. He said:

"The followers of Blaine are quietly resting beneath the starry skies, but to-morrow will awake to find that the followers of the silent soldier have not slept by their camp fires, and are awake to the requirements of the hour."

The delegates are just beginning to assemble for the morning session.

11:50 a. m.—The convention was called to order at 11:45 a. m. The contestants from the Illinois districts are now in their seats.

The Rev. Mr. Baxter was called upon to open the convention with prayer, of which the following is the concluding portion:

"God, thou creator of all things and mighty sustainer of all thy creatures, we begin this day with thankful acknowledgement of thy mercies; we commend unto thy favor and grace the members of this convention; rule, we pray thee, in all their counsels' guide all their deliberations and declare through their vote for the wisest, for the truest, for the best man to lead this great party in the contest which awaits it. Forbid that the cry of passion should be louder here than the calm voice of duty. Forbid that prejudice should warp judgment and compromise principle; nor permit personal preferences to impair or imperil the peace, the harmony, the enthusiasm and unity of purpose, or fidelity to trust of this convention."

The question of the Kansas contestants was taken up at 11:55 a. m. forty minutes given to the discussion of the Kansas question.

Mr. Conkling was not present at the opening of the convention, but Logan was on guard.

Mr. Conkling has just authorized a denial of the report in the convention that he had a letter from Grant asking him to consult with Logan, and if they deem it proper to withdraw his name as a candidate for the nomination.

12:30 p. m.—The convention has just voted to accept the majority report on the Kansas contest admitting the ten delegates to seats, but allowing the State but six votes.

A delegate has demanded a call of the States on the Kansas question and the roll is now being proceeded with.

12:35 p. m.—The call of the States on acceptance of the majority report on the Kansas question resulted yeas, 476, nays, 184,

At 1 o'clock the convention took up the contested cases in West Virginia.

In the West Virginia cases the sitting delegates are supported by the majority report and are for Blaine. The contestants are one Grant and one Sherman man. This is the first fight of the field against Blaine.

After speeches by Butterworth for the minority and Haymon for the majority, the roll was called on the motion to substitute the minority for the majority report. This brought the Grant and Sherman interests together as against Blaine, and the motion to adopt the report of the minority was agreed to—ayes, 417; nayes, 330. Ohio voted 28 ayes, 16 nayes.

The Utah case is now under consideration, and Powell Clayton, of Arkansas, is now speaking in favor of the adoption of the minority report.

2:55 p. m.—The convention has agreed to be governed by the rules of the House of Representatives, and further that when the vote of the States is called the name of no candidate can be changed except in numerical order.

3 p. m.—General Sharpe, of New York, has just moved that the convention proceed to ballot immediately for a candidate for President of the United States.

Objected to, but the president rules it in order.

3:35.—General Garfield made a point of order that rules had not been adopted.

The chair ruled the point not well taken. Garfield continued to speak, and denounced the efforts of the New York delegation to force a ballot.

At the conclusion of Mr. Garfield's remarks, on motion, convention adjourned till 7 in the evening.

7:16 p. m.—Convention called to order. Roll of States being called for selection of national committees It is reported on good authority that if there is no nomination before 4th ballot is reached Iowa, Connecticut and Indiana will cast their votes for Garfield.

Hale moved that roll of States be called for presentation of candidates by the convention. Motion being debated. When Joy mentioned name of Blaine there was great applause, continuing for some time, delegates rising to their feet and swinging hats and handkerchiefs At close of Joy's remarks there was great cheering, and Frank Pixley arose to second the nomination at 8:35.

Drake, of Minnesota, presented Windom, whose name was received with cheers.

When the State of New York was reached Conkling took the platform to nominate Grant, and received a tremendous ovation—many of the delegates and audience rising to their feet and standing on their heads. The cheering for Grant at the end of Conkling's speech lasted for nearly half an hour.

When Ohio was called Garfield stepped upon the platform to nominate Sherman, and as well as others, was cheered for some time.

Bellings, of Vermont, presented the name of Edmunds at 11:15. His name elicited much applause.

At 11:20 p. m. Cassidy, of Wisconsin, presented the name of Washburne.

It being hard onto 12 o'clock when Cassidy's rsmarks were concluded, convention decided to transact no further business, and adjourned till 10 o'clock a. m. Monday.

CHICAGO. June 6.—Convention adjourned at 11:47 p. m. to meet at 10 a. m. Monday. Blaine gained much strength last night, and if balloting had been reached would certainly have been nominated on the third or fourth ballot.

CHICAGO, June 7.—At 10:10 the convention is assembling and an immense audience is present. The weather is clear. Distinguished members are beginning to enter. Applause for Logan comes at last. Conkling has just entered the hall amid great cheering.

10:35 a. m.—Two clauses in the platform, having been misapprehended in Saturday's reading, are being read now.

The chairman has cautioned the audience against noisy demonstrations.

10:45 a. m.—Hale, of Maine, has moved that the convention proceed to ballot for a candidate for President.

The motion was agreed to.

First Ballot—Grant, 304, Blaine, 284, Sherman 93, Edmunds 34, Windom 10, Washburne 30.

Second Ballot.—Second ballot was ordered with the following result: Grant, 305; Blaine, 284.

Third Ballot—Grant, 305; Blaine, 281; Sherman, 95; Edmunds, 32; Windom, 10; Washburne, 31; Garfield, 1; Harrison, 1.

The convention then proceeded with the fourth ballot, which resulted the same as the previous one.

On the fifth ballot there was no change.

Sixth Ballot.—Grant 305, Blaine 281, Sherman 95, Edmunds 31, Windom 10, Washburne 31, Garfield 2.

Seventh Ballot.—No report. Probably the same as the sixth.

Grant's gain on this ballot was loudly cheered.

Eleventh Ballot.—Grant 305, Blaine 281, Sherman 92, Edmunds 31, Washburne 32, Windom 10, Garfield 2, Hayes 1.

A motion to adjourn until five o'clock was lost.

Twelfth Ballot—Grant 305, Blaine 283, Sherman 93, Windom 10, Edmunds 31, Washburne 33, Garfield 1, Hayes 1.

Thirteenth Ballot—Grant 305, Blaine 285, Sherman 89, Edmunds 33, Windom 10, Hayes 1, McCrary 1, Washburne 31.

Fourteenth Ballot—Grant 305, Blaine 285, Sherman 89, Edmunds 31, Windom 10, Washburne 35.

Fifteenth Ballot—Grant 309, Blaine 281, Sherman 88, Edmunds 31, Washburne 36, Windom 10.

On this ballot Grant gained three votes in Virginia, putting his total up 309. Terrific cheering greeted this change, and the Grant men shouted themselves hoarse.

Sixteenth Ballot—Grant 306, Blaine 383, Sherman 88, Edmunds 31, Windom 10, Washburne 36.

On this ballot Blaine gained a vote from Alabama, the first one from that State. This raised a round of cheers.

Seventeenth Ballot—On this ballot Texas changed one vote from Edmunds to Jeff Davis.

Alabama cast two votes for Blaine and was greeted with cheers.

New York cast fifty votes for Grant and gave an additional one for Blaine. Tremendous cheering followed this announcement.

Following is the vote in detail: Grant 303, Blaine 284, Seerman 96, Windom 10, Washburne 34, Davis 1, Edmunds 35.

A Wisconsin delegate moved to adjourn until 5 o'clock, but the motion was voted down overwhelmingly.

Thirty-sixth Ballot.—Grant 306, Blaine 42, Sherman 3, Washburne 5, Garfield 399.

Now that the hot season has come to stay, the good work of giving the poor children of the large cities an opportunity to spend a day in the country should be revived. There is no way in which so much happiness can be purchased at so small a cost for the neglected and destitute little folks who crowd our alleys and by-ways, and who, on being let loose in the woods, seem to enter upon an entirely new creation. There is certainly generosity enough in our community to defray the expenses of a few excursions for poor children during the summer, such as were conducted so successfully last season.

Poetry.

There's More Than One Way.

The robin had built in the apple-tree high;
Low down in the moss dwelt the sparrows shy;
The wren wove her nest in the jasmine fair;
The oriole hung up his castle-in-air—
Heigh-Ho! how do they know
Every summer to build them just so?

When robin and oriole, sparrow and wren
Had finished their work and were resting—just then
Dame Lazy-bird sat in the juniper high
And sang, "Not a nest all the summer build I!"
Heigh-ho! how does she know
Every summer to idle just so?

Bright yellow-bird's nest was all fashioned with grace,
And down in the dew she was washing her face,
When Lazy-bird spying the nest all alone
Just laid her brown egg there, as if 'twas her own
Heigh-ho! how does she know
Every summer to manage just so?

Now out of her nest in the barberry-bush
Poor yellow-bird tries the intruder to push;
But, finding she cannot, with fern-cotton light
She works till she buries it out of her sight!
Heigh-ho! how did she know
From her dilemmato come out just so?

Dame Lazy-bird saw it, and moping all day
Sat silent, ashamed of her indolent way,
While yellow-bird twittered, "I've often heard that There's more than one way, ma'ma, to kill—kill a cat!"
Heigh-ho! how did she know
The very best proverb to quote to her foe?

Our Story Teller.

THE ENGINEER'S STORY.

On a sunny October day, according to instructions I had received from the officers of the railroad company, I handed the engineer of engine No. 32 a letter from his chief requesting that I accompany him upon the engine, as a better post for the observations along the rails that I had been commanded to make.

After reading it he touched his hat, and respectfully bade me welcome, arranging as comfortable a seat for me as he could provide for the long ride which lay before us.

It was a novel experience for me, and a highly exciting one, as we seemed to cleave the air, the train thundering along behind us; and I could but look admiringly at the man who stood unflinchingly at his post and in whose hands in reality lay all our lives.

He was a tall, handsome fellow, whose keen gray eyes never stirred from their post, either to right or left, but whose cheery laugh often rang out on the clear morning air as we chatted together.

By noon we had become friends, at which hour we stopped at a small station, where there was a delay of twenty minutes to take on coal and water. As we slowed up I noticed standing on the platform a young woman, holding a neatly covered basket, and clinging to her skirts a little child some three years of age.

"Papa, papa!" the little on cried with delight, and glancing at my companion's face, I needed not to question whether he were the one thus called.

Another moment we had stopped, and wife and child were pressed to his breast, while a look of wonderful tenderness crept into his eyes.

"My wife and child, sir," he said, turning to me. "I have only one day a week off with them; but Mary always meets me here with my dinner, and now and then I get an hour or two with her."

"It's a hard life, and you must miss them sorely," I said.

"No matter where I am, sir," he replied, "they are with me. I hear the little one's voice above the loudest wind, and I see Mary's smile in the darkest night, although I stand alone on my engine, with my life in my hand. It's a hard life, maybe, sir, but I ought not to complain. It gave me my happiness, since it won me my wife."

When we were on our way again, and I had seen the tears fill the wife's bright blue eyes as she fondly kissed her husband goodbye, while I had slipped into the little one's chubby hands a golden gift, from the strange gentleman riding with papa, I asked my companion what he meant.

"I don't know as you'd care to hear, sir, and there's not many as I'd care to tell. You read so many book stories of the people who make up your world that you have not much time to look down to mine. There are people who think such as we have not time to love, but you have seen Mary and my boy, and—you'll tell me if I tire you.

"I was a careless fellow enough six years ago, not neglecting my work when at my post, but fond of a good time when with my companions off duty, always ready to accept a friendly glass, and sometimes with my head not quite steady when I mounted my engine, though the air always set me right before we had gone far on our way.

"One evening at a dance I met Mary Morton. She was the prettiest girl in the room, sir, and little bit of a coquette in those days, though no more than was natural, with all the young fellows trying their best to turn her head.

"I was not long behind the rest. I couldn't get her out of my thoughts, but it did not take me a great while to find out the truth of the matter. I had lost my heart. The only question was, would she turn me adrift, or give me hers for that she'd stolen? It was many a week before I got up courage enough to determine to ask her to be my wife. Every moment off duty I would spend with her, until I grew to fancy she used to watch and wait for my coming.

"But I was not without my jealous hours for all that. How did I know how she spent the time, I was so constantly away from her?

"At last I heard of another dance, to be given on the night I would be off duty. I could not see Mary until then, but I felt sure she would know that I would come for her and would go with no one else.

"But when the evening arrived, I found when I called for her that she had already gone. Perhaps, sir, in your rank of life, you know, too, what it is to be jealous, and how many a man destroys his future happiness by it.

"My first words to Mary were those of reproach, while her smile at my entrance died away and her face grew white.

"'I did not know you were coming, John. How could I?'

"'You might have waited, then," I exclaimed.

"'And stayed at home, perhaps, to have had you laugh at me with the rest. Besides, I am quite satisfied with my escort, and I believe I am the only person to be consulted in the matter.'

"'As you will,' I said, turning on my heel, muttering the word 'coquette" between my teeth, and unheeding the little pleading glance she sent from time to time across the room to where I stood.

"She was not without pride, and if she suffered from my coldness she only smiled the brighter on others, until I grew mad with jealous anger. That night began a series of dissipations with which I employed every leisure moment. I drank more deeply than I had ever done in my life—not as before, for so-called good will and good fellowship, but to drown memory.

"I did not go near Mary for a month. To me it seemed a year. Once, after a night's carousal, I passed her on the street but not until long after did I scan [illegible] bitter tears my haggard face and dissipated air had cost her. Finally, my better nature triumphed, and I went to her, repentant, to ask her forgiveness, and perhaps her love.

"On a long, lonely night ride I made up my mind to do this, though like a thousand mocking devils memories of the moments I had spent in the last few weeks crowded around me, as though taunting me in contrast to her purity; but with God's help I would make myself worthy, I said aloud, and thought the hours would never drag along until I could find myself once more in her presence. She came in to see me, holding out her hand, with a sweet smile of welcome, as though we had parted only yesterday, and yet—yet there was a change. Ah, I learned it all too soon! In those first few moments I told her the story of my life for the past few months of what it had been before I knew her—of what it should be if she would give the assurance and promise of her love. Then I paused. For a moment silence fell between us; then she spoke. A bright flush was in her cheeks, her lips trembled her lashes veiled her eyes, but her voice faltered not.

"'John,' she said, 'I am only a girl, it is true, but the man I marry must be a man. Perhaps I might have loved you'—here a little tremble crept into her tone—'but I have almost ceased to respect you. Were you my husband I would fear you, and fear and love cannot go hand in hand.'

"'Stop!' I said. 'Do you want to drive me back to the life I had hoped to have left behind me? Oh, Mary, do not be so cruel. Be my wife, and let me prove the stuff that is in me.'

"'No, John,' she answered softly; but the blue eyes she now raised to mine were swimming in tears. 'If you have seen the wrong, surely you will not return to it. Rather, if you indeed love me, prove yourself a man. It does not take a battlefield to make a hero.'

"'Prove myself a man.' These were the words that haunted me in the weeks that followed, saving me from the ruin I would else have drifted into, but torturing me with their hopelessness: What hope had I in my daily routine of duty of changing Mary's mind? Yet, spite of words, something in her eye had told me that she loved me, and that something gave me strength to live, and to withstand the daily temptations of my life.

"Six months passed, when one morning I mounted my engine to take the express train to C——. We were going along at the rate of thirty miles an hour, when suddenly, right ahead of us, it seemed, a tiny speck of red fluttered on the track.

"I strained my eyes, blew my whistle. What could it be? Merciful heaven! Another instant it was made clear to me. It was a little go'den-haired child, playing, in the very face of the huge monster of death my hand was guiding to its destruction.

"I whistled 'down brakes,' but as I did so knew that it was of no avail. Before the order could be obeyed it would be rendered useless. Then something within me said:

"'Your life is worthless. Give it for that innocent life if it must be, but save it at the peril of your own. Had you been a better man you might have had a little child like that and praying for you at home.'

"It takes a long time, sir, to tell all this, but in reality not one second had passed. At such times men think quickly. One bitter sigh rose in my breast. I would never have a chance of proving to Mary my manhood by some great deed in the future, or long years of penace. But it did not make my duty any the less clear. Bill, the fireman, was behind me.

"'Take the engine!' I screamed to him. 'Goodbye, Mary,' I whispered low to myself.

"The next minute, hardly conscious of what I was doing, I was down upon the cow-catcher of the train, clinging by one hand, the other outstretched to grasp the child, now paralized with terror. Then we were upon it. It was killed, crushed, mangled. No! I looked down. It was safely held within one strong arm, its red dress fluttering in the wind, its golden head closely pressed against my shoulder. How was it done? I cannot tell you, sir, God, they say, does not let the sparrow fall,

"Then the train checked its speed, stopped, the passengers came crowding about us, men grasped me by the hand, women cried over me, and I stood dazed and bewildered in their midst, the child tight held within my arms. It was a simple little thing, yet, sir, they gave me this,' throwing back his coat and showing a gold medal.

"I wear it in thanksgiving for the little life I saved. They raised for me a purse of gold to a large amount, but the gift which seemed to cleanse my heart was the poor mother's grateful tears.

"The papers rang next day with the story. You see, sir, it seemed more to them looking at it than to me, who had no time to stop and think; but something more was in store for me. I was off duty, the next day, alone in my lonely, desolate room, thinking it over, when some one whispered my name. In another moment some one was sobbing in my arms—some one who had come to me of her own sweet will—some one who from that moment has been the sunshine of my home and heart.

"That is all, sir. It is a simple story. I trust I have not tired you."

But I, as I grasped the noble fellow's hand, whose speech had so unconsciously betrayed the grand, true heart within, could only echo his Mary's words:

"It does not take a battlefield to make a hero."

Mr. George H. Boughton has sold to Mr. Wm. H. Vanderbilt his new picture of a village scene in the last century.

Lotta, the actress, made $50,000 during the past season. She sails for Europe immediately, but returns early in the fall.

Hon. John Wood, one of the early Governors of Illinois, is dangerously ill at his home in Quincy. He is 90 years old.

Mr. Horatio Seymour, in declining an invitation to speak at the Suffolk County Fair, writes that "he is getting much too old to travel as he once did."

The grave of young Ellsworth, at Mechanicsville, was covered with flowers on Decoration day, and an address made over it by one of the clergymen.

Thyra Louise Carolina Amelia Augusta Elizabeth is the pretty little name which has just been bestowed upon the infant daughter of the Crown Prince of Denmark.

Ex-Governor Jewell has been chosen as president of the new Connecticut Telephone company, which will conduct the telephone business throughout the State of wood nutmegs.

Mr. Hepworth is solemnly reported to have dined twice with the Duke of Edinburgh, when the latter was giving his personal attention to the unloading of the Constellation's stores.

Senator Blaine told a friend the other day that he was not anxious or enthusiastic. He said his pulse had not quickened a single beat since the commencement of the campaign.

Thyra, Duchess of Cumberland, and sister of the Princess of Wales, has lost her health, suffering from nervousness and an incessant dry cough. She is also suffering from low spirits, having been leading a secluded and lonely life.

Governor Everett is said to be the man who first suggested, in 1837, the erection of a statue to commemorate the voyages of the Norsemen to this country. He gave a lecture on this subject before the Massachusetts Historical Society.

When the body of Scott Mardis, a notorious counterfeiter and gambler who died in the penitentiary, was being taken out of the house a few days ago, a pack of cards fell from a shelf, and many of them were distributed upon the coffin.

The Duchess Pauline of Wurtumburg, who has just married a Breslau physician, is twenty-six years of age. She has renounced the title and position of a princess of the royal house and has assumed the name of Von Kiebach. She is the youngest daughter of the late Duke Eugene.

Queen Victoria and Princess Beatrice narrowly escaped an accident when out driving the other day, one of the horses indulging in a dangerously vicious temper. The royal pair had to take to walking until another horse could be provided.

Mrs. Tyler, the widow of the ex-President, lives at Sherwood Forest, the Tyler estate on the James river, not having retired as was reported, to a convent nor to the Loaise Home. Her daughter, her little granddaughter, and herself have all been received into the Catholic church.

The Princess Mary of Teck christened a new steamer the other day, and gave the bottle of port such a sturdy blow that the bottle burst and deluged her jacket and her husband's coat. Then she spent five minutes in cutting through with a gold hammer and chisel the final rope which held the vessel to the stocks.

Masculine Modes.

All trousers are worn narrower than last season. White vests are usually double-breasted.

Vests button high to match the coat, showing only the scarf about the throat, and concealing the shirt front.

Dress coats are not changed in shape, but are worn shorter than last year. They are made very plainly, without binding or cords.

Business and traveling suits are made of Scotch cheviots in plaids, stripes or mixtures of quaint goods. The entire suit is of one kind of material.

The sleeve buttons are of plain or hammered gold, worn linked, so that the cuffs merely meet at tde edges, and the cuffs are square cornered and straight.

The Punjaub scarf, folded flatly at the throat to fill the space not covered by the vest, is made of washing goods, in one piece that can be laundried without injuring the shape.

Gentlemen's coats are shorter than those of last season, and all coats for day wear button high; the rough cloths used for business suits are worn higher than the finer goods of semi-dress coats.

Shirt fronts are made of three thicknesses of linen, laid perfectly smooth, without tucks. There are but two eyelets for studs, instead of three formerly required when vests were cut lower.

New collars stand perfectly straight all around, without flaring, and meet close at the throat. Turn down collars are not very deeply pointed and have an inch and a half open space in front.

Semi-dress suits have the double-breasted Prince Albert coat made of black or blue cloth in diagonal or else corkscrew patterns. The vest is of the same material, and buttons high, with or without a collar.

White linen handkerchiefs for dress occasions have narrow hems not half an inch wide, hemstitched, and otherwise very plain. Those for general use have wide hems of robin's-egg blue, or red, with polka dots.

The dress hat for spring is the black silk with low crown, six and a half inches deep, with well rolled D'Orsay curl. The summer hats will be of the same shape, but of silver pearl color. The most fashionable straw hat is the Mackinaw, very soft yet rough-looking, with a very stiff, straight brim.

Items of Interest.

Time is money, and some people are fearfully extravagant when they visit editorial sanctums.

It is estimated that the St. Gothard tunnel will augment trade between Germany and Italy tenfold.

A St. Louis police officer killed a young man who refused to tell where he was going late at night.

It is estimated that the full wheat crop of Kansas the coming season will reach 30,000,000 bushels.

Philadelphia alone produces annually 7,000,000 more yards of carpeting than the whole of Great Britain.

There are 1,487 licensed places where liquor is sold in Buffalo, and 723 saloons were nothing but liquor is sold.

Urns of flowers filled and wreathed with other flowers are preferred to all other funeral decorations in New York.

"Will the action lie?" inqaires the anxious client. "Yes," replies the facetious attorney, "the action will lie if the witnesses will.

THAT is a very forcible illustration given by Puck in which there appears an overcrowded European steamer with its thousands of emigrants miserably huddled together. The captain is represented as saying "Room for one more," and stalking with rapid strides is the grim figure of death with bony fingers and coffined feel, just about to get on board and exclaiming, "I shall soon be on board." The idea is portrayed most vividly in this wierd design, and pictures to the mind the inevitable result of crowding from stem to stern the vessels now bringing passengers to this country. It is a notorious fact that the laws of health and decency are utterly ignored, and through want of the necessary accommodations, disease is engendered and death caused before the motley crew is able to reach port. These steamship companies in their avaracious ambition scruple at nothing regarding sanitary regulations, and it would be well for our government to adopt rigid rules concerning the transportation of immigrants so our shores.

Local Small Talk.

—It won't do this year to judge a woman by the hat she wears.

—These cool waves that Vennor sends over the country occasionally are an enjoyable change of weather, but they create consternation in the ranks of the ice cream men.

—Jet is more fashionable than ever this season.—Lock Haven Republican. And jet the ladies aren't happy. In the minds of many cheap stuff like that can never be fashionable.

—The McVeytown Journal has been considerably improved in appearance with new type. Wonder how Conrad managed to scrape together the necessary "rocks."

—The low limbs on a number of shade trees on High and Alleghany streets ought to be removed. A tall man, wearing a plug hat, is obliged to do some scientific dodging in order to get by.

—Nearly all the towns surrounding us are making preparations for some kind of a demonstration on the 4th. Bellefonte, however, seems to be mrking extensive preparations to keep quiet.

—What is supposed to be a fashion item says New York snobs are wearing bracelets. We presume, if the matter was looked into, these same "snobs" would be found clothed in zebra suits.

—Decoration day was not observed at Chambersburg, and the Herald thinks the town might as well have been fenced in, whitewashed and rented for pasturage. That's a damaging stain on Chamberburg's patriotism.

—A bass, weighing three pounds and a half, was caught above Valentines' works, one day last week—caught with a club, in the hands of some fellow who took advantage of the low water, the dam having been drawn off.

—Blossburg has more pretty girls to the square rod than any other village in the county. Some of the boys should go over and see about this.—Wellsboro Agitator. The person that wrote that item probably never visited Milesburg.

—W. E. Teller, of the Brockerhoff House, has secured the services of Mr. William McKeever, formerly of the Bolton House, Harrisburg, as an assistant. Mr. McKeever is a pleasant gentleman and of large experience in hotelling.

—The Logan hose company has accepted the invitation of the Vigilant Steam Fire Engine Company of Altoona to participate in the Fourth of July demonstration in that city. They have engaged the Bellefonte band to accompany them on the trip.

—Lovers of soda water should not be without a "pocket soda fountain," from which they can be supplied with the cooling liquid at all times, whether at home or away from home on the mountains picnicing. Call in at John Sourbeck's and see the new "machine."

—It is rumored that our popular and clever prothonotary, J. C. Harper, Esq., is negotiating for the purchase of the City Hotel in Williamsport. This is not official.—Democrat. The above is no doubt correct, as he paid one installment on the house while down there a few days since.

—An exchange says it ought to be more generally known that wheat flour is probably the best article to throw over a fire caused by the spilling and igniting of kerosene. It ought to be known, because flour is always within convenient reach and often valuable articles of clothing, blankets, etc., are destroyed in extinguishing such fires. Ashes and sand are equally as good.

—The Altoona Tribune says: W. H. Bord, a Bellefonte man and a plasterer by trade, who has been employed in this city by Christian Yerger, yesterday brought suit against his "boss" charging him with assault and battery. In a difficulty about some work Yerger picked up a board and struck Bur[illegible] on the hand, cutting a finger. The Recorder attended to the case last evening.

"Eugene Aram" at the College.

The third annual entertainment of the State College Dramatic Club was given, as advertised, in the college armory, on Friday, the 28th ult. A more favorable night for the play could not have been desired—the weather, instead of being hot, was cool and pleasant; but notwithstanding the delightful evening, the audience was not as large as had been anticipated, and a great many seats were unoccupied.

We noticed among the audience several of our Bellefonters who evidently could not resist the charms of a moonlight drive.

At the hour announced the curtain rose and the play began. Most of the principal characters were well taken. Professor Downey personated the character of "Eugene Aram, the Learned Recluse," with remarkable ability, and if well supported he would doubtless attain prominence as an actor. Considering the difficulties under which he labored, the great lack of scenery, the part was taken with great credit.

The characters "Madeline" and "Elenor" were taken creditably by Mrs. Downey and Miss Calder respectively. These ladies showed good talent, and with practice would perform well.

The appearance of Mr. Chambers in the part of "Richard Housman," a a villian and murderer, was good, but his voice and acting might have been greatly improved. When feelings of emotion were required, he failed to enter into the spirit of the part.

Prof. Reeves as "Squire Lester," father of Madeline and Eleanor, acted the old gentleman with success. "Peter Dealty," the landlord of the tavern at Grassdale, was personated by Mr. Saylor, whose young countenance corresponded sadly with the long gray wig which he wore.

Most of she minor characters were very poorly taken; indeed in this direction the play lacked very much.

We understand that the club expected to repeat the play on the following evening, but not being able to attract an audience the second night the idea was given up. X.

Years ago one man owned every dog in the world, and his name was Noah.

"Throw Physic to the Dogs."

DR. HALL'S ELECTRIC BELTS.

For the cure of all nervous diseases without the least derangement of the patient's habits or daily occupation. This appliance exerts powerful and beneficial influence throughout the whole frame: is applicable to either sex, and affords instantaneous relief in the following diseases:

Rheumatism,
Neuralgia,
Dyspepsia,
Lumbago,
General Debility,
Headaches,
Dizziness,
Impotency,
Spermatorrhœa,
Sexual Exhaustion,
Self Abuse,
Premature Decay, &c.

These belts are the result of the profound research and experiment in Electro-Therapeutics, and by their peculiar construction, a continuous "galvanic current" is generated, which permeates the whole frame, and especially envelops the suffering parts with its gentle influence. This current assimilates closer to the nervous fluid than anything known to medical science—hence its potency as a curative agent.

Most especially is the application of electricity in this form beneficial to those disorders arising from youthful indiscretion, sexual excess, or dissipations of any kind, whereby the procreative powers are lessened and Impotency threatened. No false delicacy or sense of shame should prevent the sufferer, subject to restless nights, nightmare, dreams, palpitation of the heart, neuralgia, dimness of sight and other symptoms of nervous and physical debility, applying to the undersigned for relief.

These belts are light, perfectly flexible, and easily adjusted, all of which, together with their cheapness, renders them superior to any other form, for the application of electricity, medicinally.

☞ 50,147 of these belts were sold in Europe in the year 1876.

"Electricity is Life,"

And no remedy can be compared to it for the treatment of IMPOTENCE and loss of nervous vitality.

This belt is recommended by the most eminent physiologists of this country and Europe.

"Ingenious, wonderful—a deathblow to the old system of drugging."—London (Eng.) Lancet.

"You have perfected a great blessing on suffering humanity." — Dr. Richardson, London, England.

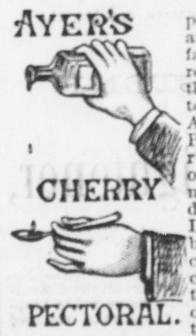
THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.



Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Decoration Day at Houserville.

A correspondent from Houserville, over the signature of "X," in writing of the Decoration services in that place, says they did not give entire satisfaction. He writes as follows:

There are two churches here, an old one and a small affair that is called the new church. Some misunderstanding caused about two-thirds of the people to gather at this point, the other portion being at the old church where the graveyard is located. The orator of the day, Rev. Lohr, was consulted with, who said he had rather speak in the graveyard, and would speak there, which gave general satisfaction; but a soldier of the late war, who was acting as one of the marshals, was not satisfied with the place selected for the oration, and refusing to take any part in the proceedings, was the cause of the rupture.

In about half an hour, the exercises in the church being over, the people filed out into the public road and marched to the graveyard. The band discoursed some music and there was some patriotic singing also, which some of the young ladies engaged in largely. After this the graves of some seven soldiers were very handsomely decorated, when Dr. Christ announced that the people would consider themselves dismissed after the benediction.

There was no doubt that the minister was very much mortified when he discovered that one-third of those that come to hear had not got the benefit of his patriotic discourse, which was said to be very appropriate. The fault was not with Mr. Lohr. Here again we see how a little selfishness mars what otherwise would have been a very pleasant occasion.

Strange Accident.

The Eldred Eagle gives the following account of a strange accident that happened to a drove of colts belonging to a Cameron county farmer. It also furnishes a powerful argument against the use of barbed or wire fences: "Last Thursday afternoon some colts belonging to Mr. Lamphier, across the river, broke from the enclosure in which they were kept and started out for a good time along the plank road. When in the neighborhood of the Windfall they became frightened, and while running at a terrific speed two of them shied from the road and ran against one of the patent wire fences, from which small, sharp-pointed knives project. Of course the result of colliding with such a fence is most disastrous, and the colts were terribly lacerated, one having the cords and muscles of its front legs completely severed, while the other received severe gashes in the breast. The accident will, in all probability, raise a question as to the propriety and legality of farmers constructing such dangerous fences."

—On the 12th ult., Samuel Rice, a car driver in the employ of Valentines & Co., while employed in coupling cars at the iron works, near this place, had his arm caught between the bumpers and was disabled for eight days. He carried an accident policy with W. B. Rankin, agent for the Fidelity and Casualty Co., of New York. The agent sent off his claim on the 24th ult., and on the 29th Mr Rice had a check for $11.50, his idemnity being at the rate of $10 per week. If any one desires to insure against accidents in a good paying company, and with an agent who attends to all claims promptly, go to Wm. B. Rankin, Bellefonte, Pa.

The regular courses of studies open to students at the Pennsylvania State College are three in number, Agricultural, Classical, and Scientific. Each is a full one, and supplimented as they all are by practical instruction on the farm, in the garden, vineyard, and the laboratories, the student who pursues either of them will become not only a well educated but a self-helpful man. Full information can be obtained by addressing the Business Manager, State College, Centre Co., Pa.

—We expect to hear of two or three boys getting drowned one of these days. Every afternoon, four or five boys from eight to ten years old, take possession of the old "flat bottom" anchored at the rear of Bayard's foundry and paddle around with a clothespole for hours at the imminent danger of being upset.

—A Lancaster county paper, in giving a description of a boy that had strayed from his home, says he was about ten years old, and "with curly red hair and eyes." We hope to gracious he'll strike Bellefonte before he is found, because a boy with red, curly eyes must be the biggest kind of a curiosity.

—More business is transacted in the brisk little town of Spring Mills than many people around here are aware of. It is estimated that during the past six months two hundred car loads of grain, lumber, etc., was shipped from that place.

—Mountain City Band gave an open air concert in the Diamond Friday evening to a crowd of two or three hundred listeners. The music was excellent and highly appreciated. Right here we would say, once more, let's have a band stand.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's foreign missionary society was held at Mrs. James A. Beaver's on Friday evening last. The meeting was as interesting as usual, and well attended, about forty members being present.

—Miss Ada Tonner, one of the most charming daughters of Canton, Ohio, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. John Tonner, formerly of this place, are visiting Mr. Henry P. Harris, the popular Howard street undertaker.

—Physicians freely prescribe the new Food Medicine, "Malt Bitters," because more nourishing, strengthening, and purifying than all other forms of malt or medicine, while free from the objections urged against malt liquors. 22-4w

Terrible Work of Diphtheria.

The Fulton Republican tells of a heartrending affair that happened in the neighborhood of Addison post-office, Somerset county: In the early part of week before last diphtheria entered the family of Mr. Edgar Nate a well-known citizen. The household was composed of mother, father and five small children. On Wednesday, the 21st of April, three of the little ones died, and the blow was so severe that Mrs. Nate lost her reason. Stealing from the house she went to the barn, made a rope of her petticoat, and hanged herself to a beam. Her lifeless body was soon afterwards found by Mrs. Kemp, a neighbor, who was nursing the sick, and who had gone in search of the distracted mother. Later in the week the two remaining children died, and the desolation of a once happy home was complete.

Welsh & Sands' Show.

Of Welsh & Sands' show, which will be in Bellefonte on Monday, June 14, the Leavenworth, Kansas, Times, of April 14th, has this to say:

The above named establishment made a better display on our streets yesterday morning than ever occurred on a similar occasion. Thousands of people lined the streets, and every windows seemed full of expectant humanity, with three bands playing, plumes waving, beautiful ladies, gallant knights in armor, and an unusually brilliant array of cages, vans, chariots, Ute chiefs in hunting costumes mounted, the electric light engine, steam piano playing its lively strains, camels in harness, mirth provoking mardi gras characters, and certainly the largest and smallest elephants ever seen here. Enormous crowds attended the afternoon and evening show. The entire exhibition was the most satisfactory that has ever visited Leavenworth, the management fulfilling all the promises made by them through their advertisements.

I DEEM it my duty to acquaint suffering humanity with the fact that ST. JACOBS OIL is the most beneficial remedy ever introduced; this I have practically tested. For the past sixteen years I have suffered with Rheumatism, and so severely that I was often robbed of my night's rest. A change of weather would have the most painful effect on me, for then I could move neither hands nor feet. I tried every known remedy, but of no avail; at last somebody recommended ST. JACOBS OIL, and I concluded to try it, but with little hope for relief. Having hardly used half a bottle, the pains diminished, and to-day I am well and hardy once more. The small sum of fifty cents had cured me.

THOMAS OTT, St. Boniface, Pa.

—Just received, the largest and handsomest stock of embroideries from 1c a yard up, at Lyon & Co.

GRAIN crops will be enormous this year throughout the world. In England, the crop prospect is more than usually promising, particularly in wheat. Throughout Ireland there is an effort to improve the old modes of farming, and to this end the introduction of new seed, different varieties, and efforts at change for the better have been resorted to, all with a view to aid in securing larger harvests. The potato crop in Ireland this year will be over two thirds in new seed—that is, imported seed of varieties which are celebrated for their productiveness. On the continent, reports indicate that the European harvest will be very large this year. France, Germany and Italy have all good grain prospects before them, in the first two countries of which the amount of wheat in the ground is much greater than was sown for thirty years before. The effect of this intelligence, if the condition to which it refers holds out, will be to cheapen grain in all parts of the world. There is, no doubt, large sums of idle capital which will be held in readiness for for ming corners in all the necessaries and luxuries of life, but it seems to be utterly impossible to handle a yield of grain like that promised this year, when the counter-balance of last year's crop still on hand is so enormous in its aggregate. The wheat prospects in the United States never were as good as they are now—never had we such an outlook in a harvest before us. But will this abundance, the result of labor and toil, be a blessing to the million—or seized and held by the avaricious, go to increase the bulk of their hoarded millions?

YOUNG Mr. Buck, of Texas, seems to have hit upon a simple and feasible plan for the disestablishment of the military academy at West Point. If one-half the candidates for appointment can be induced to shoot the other half—the shooters, of course, being turned over to the courts to be imprisoned or hung, as the result of the shooting may require—the whole matter will be settled, for no candidates will be left to be appointed. This is rather a Texan way of dealing with the difficulty, but nobody can deny that it is effective.

Editor's Table.

OUR LITTLE FOLKS is, without exception, the most finely illustrated paper for very little people that we have ever seen. Indeed, we fully concur with the publisher in his belief that the only way in which the people of this continent can fully manifest the appreciation which Our Little Folks deserves, is to send him ten hundred thousand subscribers for it within sixty days. Published monthly at only 30 cents per year. Any one will receive a sample copy free by sending his address on a postal card to S. S Wood, publisher, 252 Broadway, N.Y. City.

WORTH LOOKING AFTER.—One of the most finely illustrated papers published is offered free for one year by the publisher to any agent or person wishing light and lucrative employment, provided his "Full Particulars Free" do not amply compensate for writing to S. S. Wood, 252 Broadway, N.Y. City. Only the address on a postal card is required.

"GOOD NIGHT, GENTLE-FOLKS," is the title of a new quartette, by Will L. Thompson, author of the famous quartette "Come Where the Lilies Bloom." Concert and Minstrel troups pronounce it the most beautiful piece of music ever put on their programmes. It never fails to receive a hearty encore. The demand is such that it is scarcely possible to keep it in print. Music dealers write that they never knew a quartette to sell as fast. We advise lovers of music to send the price, 50 cents, to the publishers, and receive a copy by return mail. Published by W. L. Thompson & Co., East Liverpool, Ohio.

HON. EUGENE SCHUYLER writes from Rome that he has received proposals from Messers. Joseph Seligman & Company, the well-known publishers at Stockholm, Sweden, for permission to translate and publish his life of Peter the Great, now running in SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY, in the Swedish language, and from the house of Schmitzdroff & Co., St. Petersburg, for permission to publish in the Russian language. It is probable, that, on its completion in SCRIBNER, the work will be published simultaneously in at least five countries, and perhaps more.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY for may, containing Stedman's essay on Poe with the frontispiece protrait engraved by Cole, De Vinnie's article on "Wood-Cut Printing," "The Younger American Painters," "The New York Seventh Regiment," etc., etc., is already out of print.

A leading democrat of Burlington, Mr. E. M. Sutton, speaks in the highest terms of the curative power of the celebrated Kidney-Wort. It first cured him of a distressing Kidney disease, and he now uses it whenever he has any symptoms of billiousness or needs toning up. It acts effic ently on the bowels, and cures the worst cases of piles.

KEYSTONE

Tire Tightener,

A new and useful invention, patented November 18, 1879, which obviates all the difficulties and expense heretofore connected in keeping your wagon, buggy, horse rake, and seed drill wheels in repair.

First. By using this machine you can tighten your wheels without the aid of a blacksmith, as it is simply a device to attach to the spokes to adjust the felloe back to the tire, where it originally belonged; then insert a leather washer on the tenon of the spoke between the spoke and the felloe, which keeps the felloe up tight against the tire.

Second. By this method you can tighten the tire without removing the wheel from the wagon, or the tire from the wheel.

Third. By using this machine you will not dish the wheel, burn and split the felloe, or overheat the tire, as is too often the case when done by the old method, as you have the wheel under perfect control to make it just as tight as you want it, not running the risk of more shrinkage than was allowed, and thus ruin the wheel.

Fourth. With this machine you can remove a broken spoke and spring in a new one without injury to the wheel.

Fifth. A wheel tightened by this method will last twice as long as one tightened by the old method.

Sixth. You can save half the price of the machine on one job alone, allowing nothing for the time and trouble of taking the wagon to the shop.

QUESTIONS

Occasionally asked by persons not fully understanding the merits of the machine:

Question. Does this machine work hard?
Answer. No; a boy from twelve to fifteen years of age can work it as readily as a grown person.
Question. How does this method of tightening tires affect the hub of the wheel?
Answer. It tightens the spokes in the hub, as the machine is fastened to the hub and has the same downward pressure as it has to raise, thus should a spoke be loose in the hub it forces it back to its place and tightens it.
Question. If the wheel be felloe-bound, how do you tighten it without sawing a piece out of the felloe, as it is done by the old method?
Answer. Simply by adjusting the felloe back to its original place, then put the washer under it and keep it there.
Question. Will not a wheel tightened by this method soon give way and become loose?
Answer. No; as it is evident that wood upon wood will not last as long as wood on leather, by placing a leather washer on the tenon of the spoke, it avoids friction and bruising of the wood, thus proving all for the machine that we claim for it.

THE proprietors of pool tables in Philadelphia intend fighting the State government to the bitter end, and will pay the tax levied only when the court decides that they must do so. They have an organization which already numbers four hundred, and, as they can afford to indulge in such business, it is to be presumed they will have able counsel. The point to be made is, that the pool tables are only kept for the gratuitous amusement of the patrons, and the lawyers will have to show that playing for drinks and cigars is an amusement that costs nothing.

GARABALDI is becoming a very heavy load for Italy to carry. The trusty old patriot, sturdy and opinionated, assumes to be the only living man to whom free Italy should go to for advice, and in his impotent rage at what he regards the shortcomings of the House of Savoy, counsels the people to acts of violence, which if indulged in would involve them in much trouble. When a man becomes so unruly, he ceases to bacome an object of respect, and Garibaldi has certainly become very intractable.

IT is a comparatively easy matter to burn an American town, but it is altogether impossible to keep it down. The latest illustration is Milton, which was so cruelly devastated by the flames recently. Already the merchants have begun to tear down the ruins, and are preparing to erect elegant and handsome buildings on their site. The recovery of the town from its losses will, of course, be less rapid than in the case of cities which by their position command the trade of large sections of country; but there is every reason for believing that the new Milton will be a great improvement, architecturally, on the old, and will enjoy greater prosperity. It sometimes requires a great catastrophe to rouse a community to a sense of its opportunities for progress.

THE United Presbyterian Board of Publication seems to have enjoyed a good degree of prosperity during the fiscal year just closed. The annual report was laid before the General Assembly at Xenia, Onio, the other day. From it we learn that steady progress has been making in the publication of denominational literature, and that some new features have been introduced, among them the illuminated cards, now so popular in the Sabbath-schools of the country. The expenditures during the year amounted to $23,249.46, and the sales and donations foot up $28,676.77. The donations from the various publication funds aggregated $1,907.95, while the sales reached $23,249.42. The receipts of sales for the new version of the Psalms was $5,854.24. The increase in the business for the year is about twenty-five per cent. over that of the previous year, an evidence of the fact that the financial affairs of the board have been well managed.

THERE is every reason to believe that the fires of the Cuban revolution, which have smouldered for two or three years, have broken out afresh. The expedition which recently left this country for Cuba reached its destination in safety, discharging its cargo of arms and force of men. The patriots are headed again by a man of courage and daring, who has taken the offensive, and the revolutionary committees in Philadelphia and New York and other American cities are recognizing. While the people of this country have always sympathized with the Cubans, their sympathy has never been as effective as it might have been, but their opportunity is probably coming again. Any party in Cuba which will destroy the hold of Spain upon the island, which proclaims and enforces emancipation with every step forward it makes, and which is imbued with and is the outcome of the spirit of the age, deserves the sympathy and support of Americans and lovers of freedom everywhere.

SPECULATION in raw material has had a most blighting effect on real estate improvement in all parts of the north, east and west this year. The year started favorably enough, and contracts were being rapidly made even last year for building in 1880, but the speculation in iron caused enhancements in hardware which was followed by inflation in lumber and brick to such a degree as at once to check building operations. There was a large surplus capital in all parts of the country which would have gone into real estate improvements two years ago, if it had not been for the tendency even then to speculate in materials of all kinds. The alacrity with which the four per cent. Government bonds sold was due largely to this withdrawal of capital from building extension, and now that this speculation has been widened until it en braces all the material needed in real estate improvement, the progress of the country has been very much checked in this respect. As long as we have Government securities in which to invest surplus cash it will not be put into building operations at fancy prices. Before there was this sort of investment, speculators could succeed in a corner in lumber and brick, because there was then no other source of investment, but hereafter the United States government will be able to get all the money it wants to refund its indebtedness from six and five to four and three per cents rather than put it into real estate at fancy prices, when the chances are it would not realize two per cent. The fact is a very suggestive one as showing the evil effects of speculation in legitimate business.

ON Tuesday the census takers began their work, the leading requirements of which are the ascertainment of the age, sex and occupation if any, of every inhabitant in the country. The printed instructions issued for the guidance of the enumerators indicate at once the exactness that will be expected in the collection of data on these points, and the trouble that is anticipated in getting at it. The instructions as to sex classification are extremely limited, the high order of intelligence of the average enumerator being relied upon to secure the enrollment of fathers, brothers and masculine persons generally, under the head of "male." It is in matters of age and occupation that the enumerators are placed on their guard and advised of their duties and full powers in the premises. Proprietors of ginneries are not to be permitted to class themselves as "members of the bar," nor are those who "take in" whitewasing to go down under the general head of "artists." These things are all to be arranged with all possible precision. The enumerator is also instructed to use his own judgment or make outside inquiries in cases where he supposes inaccurate answers are made to his inquiries; as for instance, where the mother smilingly states her age at "35 or 36," and her eldest daughter acknowledges an existence of 25 years, while there are yet three or four marriageable sisters to hear from, the enumerator is advised that he will be justified in inquiring next door for further and more accurate information. The rate of enumeration is to be two cents for each name or death recorded.

Getting Ready to Go.

The very hot weather and the advertisements in the papers bear evidence to the fact that the season for our people to make their annual exodus is at hand. The proprietors of hotels, boarding-houses and cottages at the seaside, among the mountains, and in the rural districts, are making known their desire to accommodate such as may contemplate temporary retirement from the heated city, and parents are making use of printer's ink to express their needs for the season. There are many thousands of persons who are compelled by the nature of their business or paucity of funds to remain in the city during the summer, the only opportunity for a change being that which is afforded by an occasional trip on a steamboat or a jaunt in the park, but there are many other thousands who, more blessed, pecuniarily, vacate their homes when hot weather comes and hie to a more pleasant temperature. There are few who thus absent themselves from the great metropolis who enjoy the same comforts that they do in their own dwellings, but the respite from the cares of housekeeping and the perplexities of business induce them to submit to inconveniences without complaint. For those who cater for the dwellers in large cities it is the season when a golden harvest is reaped, and it is probably from some of the shrewdest of their number has emanated the prediction that it is to be the hottest summer we have had for years, the ambition of all country and seashore hotels and boarding houses being to secure as early as practicable a goodly number of guests who will contract to remain until the opening of autumn. In the interest of hosts and guests we might wish these predictions would prove to have been well founded, but for the health and comfort of the great army of can't-get-aways, we fervently hope that the summer months will be unusually cool and pleasant, although the hot weather we have already experienced make us bear they will be otherwise.

Judge McCrary made his first appearance on the bench at the opening of the federal court, Des Moines, Iowa, on Monday.

TROUBLE in the Northeast seems to be brewing between the British and our own government. There has always been a puzzle in the diplomacy of that point, first in the adjustments of boundary lines, which were a source of volumninous correspondence, and now on the fishery question, which was made a pretext by Great Britain to get whole for her losses in the Alabama piracy adventure. The British government has never been known to forgive any other that outwitted it in any negotiation. In dealing with the United States, Great Britian has always been in an unfair position. She never treated the thirteen colonies justly, and has always acted in a resentful manner towards the United States. She did what she could to foment trouble when slavery existed, stirring up mischief in the North on that subject, and when the slaveholders revolted taking up with them to aid in dissolving the Union. During the rebellion they labored in season and out of season to organize an alliance of European powers for the recognition of the Southern confederacy, and would have succeeded had not Russia proclaimed a purpose to join the United States in alliance to oppose such an arrangement, which broke down the English combination. It was Russia's policy in this connection which incensed England against the Czar in the Eastern question and shaped her course during the Turco-Russian war. England now comes back to the Northeastern question in this hemisphere, mischievously intent on making trouble with the United States. She has made repeated attempts within the last fifty years to provoke a quarrel with us by setting up ridiculous claims on the Northern border from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, claims which had no foundation in the law of nations, in fact or in equity, but which were urged all the more persistently because of her latent hate and stale grudges against everything American in the Yankee sense. She is spoiling for a fight with the United States. If she cannot induce others to join her she will go in herself, and now strives to make things as ugly as possible in the fishery business, in which all the claims she sets up are absurd and ridiculous as is whatever she does in that line in all the navigable waters of the world. The people of the United States may as well make up their minds, first as last, to have trouble with the government of Great Britain. The Disraeli party in England will make this a pretext to arouse popular feeling in England against the United States and of ousting the Gladstone party. The fishery business had no more merit in it than had hate of Russia, but English hate of the Yankee is just as bitter as that of the Cossack. The feeling is an old one. It dates far back of this generation and is of the wrankling animosity which beats in John Bull's heart for people who cross his path. America is now his object of resentment. Who will it be next?

WEST POINT'S standard of merit, as exhibited in its class rank, is pertinently illustrated in a recent enumeration made by a St. Louis paper which gave the class rank of Union and rebel generals of prominence in the late war. The most remarkable fact contained in the enumeration of class rank, is that those rated the lowest in their class were the best fighters, while with a few honorable exceptions, those who ranked among the highest were mostly theorizers, pick and shovel generals, who were forever drilling and marching. It is a fact, too, that the most expert engineering ability in the Union army was that contributed from civil life.

MR. KELLEY'S declaration in the House the other day that he was in favor of limiting the coinage of silver to a nominal sum, like $100 per month, in order to force England into bi-matalism, will be a sad shock to the enthusiastic bi-metallists. If this is the result of Mr. Kelley's cogitations on the silver question, the country will be asked what the country has gained by stacking up some sixty millions of silver in the vaults of the Treasury in obedience to that gentleman's convincing bi-metallic arguments of two years ago? No wonder that Mr. Bland should be shocked at such heresy on the part of such a leading silver advocate.

THE Methodist Protestant General Conference, which has been holding its sessions in Pittsburgh for the past fortnight, wound up its labors Thursday afternoon. Their meeting was a harmonious one throughout, and the fraternal settlement of some delicate questions in reference to the publicational and other interests will leave a clear field and a wide scope for pushing the work of the church in the future. The visitors left with the kindliest recollections of the Iron City, which will be paralelled by the feeling entertained for them by the people.

NIHILISM, the bloodiest of all the political pursuits of Europe, seems to be on the increase, or rather, is not the least disheartened or diminished by the rigor with which its adherents are treated in Germany and Russia. These bold antagonists of monarchy and disturbers of order and security, have all the money they need to carry on their work, and according to late revelations have organizations in every considerable city and town in Europe.

THE entertainers of the American Medical Association in New York, engaged Edwin Booth to play "Othello" at a private performance at Booth's Theatre Wednesday evening for their especial entertainment. The spectacle of Desdemona, whose death was caused by suffocation with a pillow, reviving and glibly talking a few minutes afterward before finally dying, must have edified them very much from a scientific standpoint.

THE American rifle team sailed for Dublin yesterday. After the excitement over the two political conventions at Chicago and Cincinnati has died down, a couple of weeks from now, people will turn to the news from Dollymount with interest to watch for another victory of American skill over British. America carries off the trophy every year and may be depended on as usual this season.

THE intense interest felt in the convention at Chicago is specially emphasized in the statement that business to a large extent is suspended, in the general anxiety. It is very much so elsewhere. When Greek meets Greek there is likely to be an interesting struggle, and where such interests are involved as in this one a country may well pause to see how it goes on.

THE college carsmen from the two great New England colleges are working hard for their annual contest this month. If it were not for the political situation which occupies everybody's thoughts to the exclusion of everything else, the public would be called upon to peruse letters from New London describing the preparations for the event.

HENRI ROCHEFORT got a sword thrust in the stomach Thursday that will prevent him from slapping that prefect of police in the face for some time to come. The duel was fought across the border in Switzerland, just as prize fighters in this State cross the boarder into West Virginia, when they desire to amuse themthemselves.

HAPPINESS does not always accompany wealth, and pomp and power. The Empress of Russia, who on Thursday closed her earthly career, sadly experienced the truth of this fact in a life clouded with domestic sorrow, the cause of which it seems could not be justly chargeable to her.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The debt statement published to-day shows a decrease of $16,000,000 in the public debt during May, a decrease since June last of $75,000,000.

MOSCOW, June 1.—The Ledgedale tannery took fire last night at 11 o'clock and was entirely destroyed. Loss $30,000. Some of the leather was saved.

BALTIMORE, June 1. — Yesterday while the colored Post, G. A. R., was going to Laurel Cemetery to decorate the graves of their dead, some of the negroes following went into a beer saloon and called for beer, for which they refused to pay. The proprietor made an effort to eject them, when they raided his house and took what they pleased. The police were summoned, and when they reached the place the negroes were stoning the saloon. They then assailed the police, who drew their pistols and fired on the mob, killing one man, Chas. Mosell, and wounding others, a woman being among the wounded. That quelled the riot, and the rioters returned to the city.

WASHINGTON, May 31. — Second Assistant Postmaster General Brady to-day received a telegram from C. A. Lounsberry, postmaster at Bismarck, Dakota, as follows: "I have to report that the mail due from Fort Keogh this morning was captured by Indians near Little Missouri on Thursday. The carrier and two other employees of the contractors were killed, and six head of stock stolen. The next station west was also probably taken and another mail lost. Troops should be stationed near Little Missouri to protect the route, as much trouble growing out of the rail extension may be expected. Later advises show Lake Beaver and Little Missouri stations, on the Bismarck and Fort Keogh mail route, are captured by Indians. The mails, seven men and twenty-seven head of stock are missing."

COLLIERS, W. Va., June 1.—The Goss-Ryan prize fight took place here this morning, and resulted in the defeat of Goss after eighty-five rounds in one hour and twenty minutes. The ring for the fight between Goss and Ryan for the heavy weight championship and $2,000 was pitched at 2:45 a.m. in a ravine near Colliers station, West Virginia, about three hundred yards from the Pennsylvania boundary line. Some three hundred persons were present, Pittsburgh being well represented, with a slight sprinkling from New York city and Troy. At five o'clock two deputy sheriffs appeared and warned those present that the Governor of West Virginia had stated that the requisitions would be issued for the arrest of the principals.

The fight began at 6:15 a. m. Ryan entered the ring first, and soon after was followed by Goss. Schell Fairchild was chosen referee. The fight was closely contested, and but for the age of Goss would probably have lasted still longer. In the 85th round Goss' seconds claimed a foul, and it not being allowed, refused to fight their man longer, and the fight was awarded to Ryan. The latter was terribly punished about the face and body, but held out. Goss was not apparently much cut or disfigured, but became winded.

HARTFORD, June 1.—Two old women, Mrs. John Chidsey and her sister, Mrs. Maria Avant, both widows, living in an old red house in Avon, were both found murdered in the house this morning. The killing is supposed to have been done yesterday. Mrs. Chidsey was found upstairs, lying on her bed with her clothes on, and had a Bible and a newspaper lying by her side as if she had been reading, and killed with a blow from a tailor's goose across her forehead and one eye. Her sister was found in the kitchen, killed by a blow with an axe on the back of the head. She was found where she was probably struck, as there was a pool of blood under her head. Both were no doubt killed instantly, as only one wound upon each was fonnd. No one is suspected, nor was any cause known for the deed. Mrs. Chindsey was 70 years old, and Mrs. Avant 73. They were nice people. Both were seen about the house Sunday morning. The axe and goose belonged in the house. The two old widows had some property, but it is not believed that much money was in the house.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—At half-past twelve o'clock this morning the night watchman at Patton, Allison & Jones' cotton and woolen mills at Washington avenue and Twelfth streets, discovered that the dry-room, at the back end of the four-story wing, was on fire. The whole wing was used for spinning and preparing yarns, the work of weaving being accomplished in the three-story factory on the corner. The watchman, finding that the flames were making rapid headway, raised an alarm. The policeman who heard it had to run up to Broad street, and in the few moments interval that elapsed the fire fairly leaped through the place. A long delay ensued before the firemen got water on the flames, and this time was sufficient to create an uncontrollable mass of flames, which devoured the interior, with expensive machinery, in short order. Loss on machinery, stock, etc., about $30,000.

The mysteries of tanglefoot seem to be abating somewhat. The Eagleville Christian Union Anti-License Society is progressing finely.

We were treated the other night to a very indolent dog fight. In fact, the sporting club looked upon it as a sort of humbug.

Our politicians are eager and anxious to have the result of the Chicago convention. One of the chatty relatives wants to bet $500 on Blaine.

Gib Bodine comes to the front with the regular snake story. Gib was looking for hoop poles, and saw a nine foot black snake ruralizing in a brush fence attending to his own affairs, seemingly, when Gib shouldered a billet of cord wood and sailed in and struck the snake a fearful (?) blow. Gib, however, lost his balance and tumbled into the fence. The snake crawled leisurely up a tree, while Gib, in his tumble, jammed his his head so far into his hat as to render him sightless. He jumped to his feet and began executing all manners of evolutions and revolutions, to escape the fangs or coils of his snakeship. After taking off his hat, some fifty feet from the attack, and looking carefully about, he went home. We haven't heard from the snake, but if we should we will let you know.

Fine weather, everything growing, and potato bugs on the advance, especially on Rev. Ridge's potatoes.

Unionville Brevities.

B. Rich, Esq., is now in West Virginia.

Our recent rains encouraged the farmers wonderfully.

Bud Griest is now the proudest man in town—it's a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wright, old friends (Quakers) from near Gettysburg, are now visiting their daughter, Mrs. Dr. Russell.

On Sunday last two children of Robert Adams were playing at the wood pile when one struck the other on the hend with an axe and nearly severed three fingers.

Yesterday O. G. Musser, our cabinet maker and undertaker, was working with a revolving bit when his right hand slipped cutting it nearly in two. He had no accident policy.

The above accidents were promptly attended to by Dr. Russell, and are doing well.

I have been using your Cattle Powder for horses, cows, chickens and pigs, and find it a first class thing.—GEORGE BOND, Germantown, Pa.

Please send me half a gross of Cattle Powder. I have used two packs on my cow and chickens. The cow gave nearly twice the quantity of milk that she did before, and gave twice the amount of butter. My chickens were dying, but were cured immediately after I had used the powder. Yours truly, JONAS PASOUR, Dallas, N. C.

Decoration Day at Jacksonville.

Decoration day was observed in a fitting manner at Snydertown and Jacksonville. The Zion cornet band furnished the instrumental music. At 10 o'clock a. m. the ears of the assembled men, women and children in front of the Snydertown Union church were saluted with the patriotic strains of "Hail Columbia," announcing the arrival of the band. The procession was then formed under the direction of post commander D. C. Walter, in the following order:

1. Zion Cornet Band.
2. The Clergy.
3. Soldiers of the late war.
4. Children with wreaths and flowers.
5. Citizens in general.

Arrived on the ground where repose the remains of soldiers of the Revolution, the war of 1812, and of the late war, prayer was offered by Rev. Irvine. The soldiers present placed beautiful wreaths received from the children upon the graves, and planted thereon the Stars and stripes. After this floral offerings were offered by all such as desired to do so.

Rev. Geo. P. Hartzell delivered the oration, followed with pertinent remarks by Rev. Irvine, a veteran. The hymn prescribed by the G. A. R. was sung, and the services closed with the benediction.

In the afternoon many of those who were present in the morning hastened to Jacksonville to participate in the ceremonies there. Our usually quiet village presented a lively appearance. At an early hour the people came flocking from all directions, both young and old, determined to make it a success.

The order of the procession was the same as in the forenoon, Capt. S. H. Bennison acting as marshal. The flag of our country was borne aloft in advance of the procession by Veteran Smith.

The Presbyterian cemetery was first visited. A beautiful dirge was rendered by the band. The preliminary devotional services were held, and then the veterans performed their part in making prominent the resting places of the fallen heroes with chaplets, flags and flowers.

Rev. S. S. Wallen was the orator for the occasion. All over here, the line of march was resumed, headed for the Reformed and Lutheran burying ground, where repose the ashes of three soldiers of the late war. Rev. Wallen served as chaplain. Floral tributes were paid by soldiers and citizens. A few remarks were made by Rev. Geo. P. Hartzell. A hymn was sung to the tune of Old Hundred, after which Rev. Wallen pronounced the benediction.

Thus closed Decoration day at Jacksonville—a day long to be remembered. I believe there were very few who did not enjoy it. Quite a number were heard to remark, "How beautiful!" This was the first observance of the day at this place; I do not belive it will be the last.

The Post commander requests your correspondent through your columns to express his sincere and heartfelt thanks to the citizens for their liberal contributions of money towards defraying expenses, and especially to the ladies and children for the interest taken by them in furnishing flowers and wreaths with which to decorate the graves of the nation's dead.

RETEP.

Hublersburg Notes.

Decoration day was duly observed at Snydertown and Jacksonville. The Zion cornet band furnished the music for the occasion. They did not forget to "toot" for us as they passed through on Tuesday.

On Monday the community turned out to reroof the Presbyterian church the old roof having lasted forty years.

Moses Romick's time is consumed at present nursing biles.

Last week David Brown left for Iron City College, Pittsburgh.

Hublersburg can beat any town in the State for horse-jockeys, in the trio of Wm. Yearick, Wm. Losh and Wm. Kessinger.

The rain of last Sabbath was most welcome.

Vennorisms.

Here are a few of Vennor's prophecies for June and July, and as he has shown himself to be a reliable prophet, to a considerable extent, they are entitled to some consideration: He says: "I believe that June will be an intensely hot month, and will be fall-like again with frost again. July will be a terrible month for storms, with terms of intense heat, but another fall-like relapse, with frosts, will in all likelihood, occur a few days before the 20th. I fear the storms of thunder and hail will be of unusual severity during July." His past predictions have mainly come true, but we hope for the sake of every body in general, that July at least will go back on him.

It is not Gentlemanly

To point at a person with the finger and make remarks, at a public place or on the street. Those who witness the operation may think the one so pointed out has been guilty of a misdemeanor, and form unjust conclusions.

To beg a big chew of tobacco from a man and then, if it don't suit your taste, to ask him when he began mulehing dock leaves.

To smoke in church, or take a dime novel along to read during the delivery of the sermon.

To attempt to draw a sensitive, redheaded man into a conversation on fire-works.

To make a remark about clothing going up, on meeting a man on the street whose trousers legs are four inches too short.

To ask a man into a cigar store for a smoke, and then discover, with seeming astonishment, that with the exception of a bunch of keys and a trunk check, your pocket is empty, and leave the other fellow to settle the damage.

To invite a young lady to an entertainment and then, about half an hour before the time for the show to begin, drop her a note stating that as your washing was not sent home in season you will not be able to call for her.

To ask a bald-headed man what the prospects are for a good fly crop.

To accompany a man home to supper by invitation, and then spread your butter all over your plate on the hunt for hairs.

To stand at the entrance of church doors on Sunday, and squirt tobacco juice over the steps for the ladies to drag their dresses through.

Desperate Horse Thief.

A horse thief, who is said to be a desperate character, was captured in Lancaster county on Monday, but administered a severe thrashing to his captors and escaped, and it would be well for the farmers of Centre county to be on their guard lest they be relieved of their stock. The Telegraph says: Information was received in this city yesterday morning that during Sunday night the stable of Porter Thompson at Mexico, Juniata county, had been broken open and a horse and buggy stolen. On making inquiries it was reported that the thief had taken breakfast in Harrisburg and was on his way to Middletown. Telegrams were sent to various points along the line of the Pennsylvania railroad, and this morning information was received that the fellow had been captured at Elizabethtown, Lancaster county. Chief Cilley and Detective A. Roat were preparing to go to Elizabethtown by carriage, no trains stopping there until this evening, when they learned that the thief had escaped. He had been captured by two men, and while they were taking him to the depot he turned on them and after whipping both fled. They followed and fired revolvers at him, and finally recaptured the fellow taking him to the depot for security. While one of the captors absented himself from the room momentarily the thief turned on the remaining officer and severely whipped him, again succeeped in escaping, and up to this time he has not been caught. And that's why Messrs. Cilly and Roat did not take a carriage ride down to the beautiful county of Lancaster.

Snake Story.

The Johnstown Tribune comes to the front with the first snake story of the season, and thus tells of the "narrow escape" of a citizen of that place: "William Slick, Esq., of the Fifth ward, was out on a surveying expedition on Laural Hill, within the limits of Lower Yoder, yesterday, and he was accompanied by Messrs. David H. Hashberger and David Gates. While the 'Squire was proceeding with the running of lines he stepped across a huge rattlesnake, which did not sound an alarm until he was several feet away, when it set up a rattling which was almost enough to make his blood run cold, Quickly recovering himself he succeeded, with the assistance of Mr. Hashberger, in putting a period to her existence. The latter took from the serpent a large quantity of fatty matter; he claims it is an excellent specific for wounds, etc. The rattles eight in number, were taken possession of by Mr. Slick. The snake was of the female persuasion and measured four feet long six inches in length. Its age was about eleven years.

Port Matildu.

Our town can boast of a curiosity in a boy, thirteen years old, who weighs one hundred and seventy-five pounds.

We had a slight row in town last evening. Cause—bad whisky or hard cider.

Our young friend, Dr. Fugate, son of Major John Fugate, is having quite a large practice.

The Pine Hall brass band attended our decoration services, and treated us to some fine music. NIB.

W. B. Camp Meeting.

The West Branch Camp Meeting Association have issued their annual circular, from which we learn that the annual meeting this season will continue ten days, commencing Tuesday, August 17th, and closing Friday, August 27th. The same rule in force last year in regard to closed gates on Sunday will be adopted this year, with a slight modification. When it is not possible for tent-holders, or persons holding season tickets, to be present Saturday night, they, and they alone, will be admitted on the Sabbath.

Decoration at Boalsburg.

The largest crowd ever assembled on a similar occasion at this place, gathered in our town on the evening of the 29th to witness the decoration ceremonies. The procession formed in the diamond at 6 p. m., and headed by the drum corps, marched to the cemetery. Exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. W. H. Groh, after which the memorial ode was sung by the choir, and followed by an address delivered by Rev. I. Youtzy. The graves were then decorated by the soldiers present. Benediction by Rev. Youtzy. SOLDIER.

More Violation.

[Communicated.]

About four years ago there were placed in the streams of Spring and Bald Eagle creeks near Milesburg, black bass. One year ago they made their appearance in great numbers, and this spring they seemed more numerous, yet regardless of law there is a certain shoemaker, also a cabinet maker, and other residents of our town who will fish in the said streams with a net of smaller mesh than 3 inches. It is said that legal proceedings will be instituted against them for a violation of the law. Where are our fish protectors? PHIL.

Starved in a Box Car.

A man was found in an almost lifeless condition, from starvation, in a box car, near Altoona, on Tuesday last. The Tribune says: "The local freight yesterday backed a car off at Bridgeport that it might be loaded with sand. It was a box car, and as is frequently the case was locked. When the workmen in the sand quarry opened the door they were surprised to see the body of a man apparently dead lying inside. He was taken out carefully, and some signs of life were still visible. The poor fellow tried to speak several times, but in a very few minutes died. It is supposed that he was stealing a ride and was accidentally locked in, although he may have gone in and took sick. On his person was found twenty dollars in money. No clue was left as to his name, but it is supposed that he came from the vicinity of Reading.

Wine for Females and Invalids.

It is well known that there are cases when the most strict advocates of temperance are obliged to use some sort of wine, especially those who are old and infirm. Many weakly females as well as invalids and debilitated persons in warm weather need a little strengthening wine. The great defficulty has been in procuring a rich wine that is reliable. There are many cases where wine would be used to great advantage in place of alcoholic drinks if only a genuine article could be had, and upon which physicians could rely as being strictly pure without alcoholic admixture. The Port Grape wine of Alfred Spear, of Passaic, New Jersey, has been analyzed by chemists in almost every State, and has always been proved strictly pure and beneficial. This wine is now being used in hospitals and in families for medicinal purposes, also in churches for communion services. Mr. Spear's mode of conducting the fermentation is such as to retain the rich flavor and sweetness of the fruit without much fermentation to create stimulative properties. —Transcript. The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

—They all go to the Bee Hive.

—Full sets of undergarments at Lyon & Co.'s.

—All kinds of canued goods, fresh and nice, at Sechler's.

—The best and cheapest boots and shoes are to be found at the Bee Hive.

—The best selected stock of smoking and chewing tobaccos at Sechler's.

—A party of young folks from town picniced at the Intersection on Saturday.

—All the latest novelties in hosiery and lace goods are to be found at the Bee Hive.

—The Altoona trotting horse, Ethel Medium, came in last in a 2:29 race at Washington.

—This is the "month of roses," and the air is already filled with their fragrant odor.

—Spring chickens, at least all we have seen, are about the size of a starved quail.

—In several of the counties surrounding us the young folks are getting up leap-year picnics.

—A new insurance company, on the co-operative assessment plan, has been organized in Renovo.

—Saturday's market was about as full as usual. Nothing new was offered in the way of vegetables.

—Some of the boys that loaf about the depot can out-squeal any locomotive that ever steamed into town.

—An animated dog fight created some excitement in front of the Brockerhoff House Sunday night.

—A splendid stock of gent's summer suits at the Philadelphia Branch. Fine goods, well made, and no shoddy.

—Mr. John Anderson, the well-known saloonist, has been confined to his house for several days by illness.

—The musical rattle and crash of the dinner gong once more resounds through the corridors of the Bush House.

—The Newport Ledger has a snake yarn—an old settler with eighteen rattles; desperate encounter. Takes the rag.

—Hurrah! for the show is coming. The manager will be satisfied if he has such a rush as the Bee Hive store has had this season.

—If you want the best pump in the market, go to Jas. Harris & Co.'s hardware store and get one with the gum plunger. They are fully guaranteed.

—A Berks county farmer has worn one pair of boots to church for thirty years. The shoemakers ought to call a convention and vote to exterminate him.

—Hoover, Hughes & Co., of Philipsburg, have been awarded the contract for building the new railroad depot at Tyrone. Work has begun on it.

—Samuel Lewins is proprietor of the largest clothing house in Centre county, and a visit to his store on Allegheny street will convince anyone of the fact.

—Bellefonte is indeed a musical centre. Besides our own musical organizations we have been honored with a visit from five hand organ men this season.

—Two suspicious looking individuals were seen moving about in Crider's lumber yard on Saturday night. Probably laying in their week's supply of wood.

—Go to Harris' hardware store for all reaper and mower repairs and sections. They are headquarters for double harpoon hay forks, scythes, snaths, cradles, forks, &c.

—Mountain City Band festival Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. Save up your quarters, choose your partners, and be prepared to give the boys a lift.

—You can purchase better goods, and for less money, at Lewins' Philadelphia branch store, than at any other clothing house in the county; and everybody says so who buys there.

—Girls, do not friz your hair with a hot slate pencil. A pupil at the Millersville normal school almost burned her eye out while performing the operation. How terrible the warning!

—One would think from the quantity of lumber arriving in town every day that there was a tremendous sight of building going on in this vicinity. But, then, appearances are often deceiving.

Miss Snowden's Concert.

When we have a written language—other than the musical score—that can express the sentiment of melody and harmony, we shall be able to speak in fitting terms of such entertainments as that which Miss Snowden gave us Thursday evening. It was a brilliant success, and the only regret we felt was that its appearance had not been sufficiently heralded beforehand to secure as full a house as the affair deserved. The prevalent political excitement may also have had its effect. Still the audience was a good one, as regards numbers, and better in quality, and every way appreciative, apparently.

Our supreme regret in this connection is that we cannot notice the performance as it deserves, having our alloted space already about filled with politics. Under such circumstances it is invidious to criticize individual performances, and we will only mention what we have space for, without prejudice to the rest.

Miss Snowden deserves the highest praise and the gratitude of our citizens for her faithful and thorough training of her pupils, and to her the success of the undertaking is due. Her playing was exquisite, so was that of Miss Hibler, Eddie Valentine and Miss Hughes, and the several quartettes of the Misses McGinley and Messrs. Keller and Orbison. Miss Julia Valentine won the first encore and more than deserved it. Miss Curtin was unsurpassable, as ever. Professor Willis adds to his brilliant reputation by every note he sounds.

The others must pardon our neglect, as our space is full.

—Beer, and other "stimulating" liquids, flowed freely Saturday night, and "boozyites" were encountered on every street corner. One or two pugilistic scrimmages, in which bottles and fists flew around promiscuously, took place on the streets, and several individuals who had lost their bearings and were yelling and swearing in the different languages, were given free lodging in the lock-up. One man thought it was 'lection night, and was looking for the man that said "Tilden wasn't 'lected."

—His Royal Highness, Prince Leopold, is hereby invited to visit Bellefonte. We don't have much spare time now-a-days, to be sure, but nevertheless we'll rush him around and show him the "elephant" anyhow. Bellefonte will give the gentleman a hearty, give-us-your-hand welcome, and make him feel like tying up here for the season.

—If the next issue of the Watchman is not up to the average it will be because the associate has other duties to attend to just now, and mighty important duties, too. It's a girl, and those who have seen Joe since the occurrence of the momentous event, say that he looks right over the roofs of the houses when he walks down street.

—In the window of J. C. Miller & Co.'s bookstore may be seen a well executed pen-and-ink drawing—a time indicator for the United States, the property of E. C. Humes, Esq. It was drawn by Rev. John Tonner, deceased, formerly a resident of Bellefonte, and presented by him to its present owner.

—Who says the ladies are not exercising their leap-year rights? We've had two invitations from the fair sex within the past week—one to attend the circus and the other to take a buggy-ride. Of course we accepted both. This talk about Bellefonte girls being backward in this respect is all moonshine.

—A "basket meeting" of the Disciple congregation of Marsh creek, this county, will be held near Robb's Store, beginning on Saturday, June 19th, and continuing two days. Two able preachers will be present on the occasion and address the meeting. All people, of every denomination, are invited to be present.

—Mr. William M. Allison, of Potters Mills, brother of Mrs. Frank McCoy, of Milesburg, was united in marriage with Miss Laura B. Higman, of Blossburg, Tioga county, on the 2nd inst. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's parents by Rev. F. K. Fowler.

The Bellefonte Fencibles.

Orders from the Adjutant General's office were received at brigade headquarters on Saturday last, signifying that the Bellefonte Fencibles, lately recruited from about the best material in the neighborhood, would be accepted and assigned to duty as part of the National Guard of this State. Accordingly the following order was issued:

HEADQUARTERS 4TH BRIGADE,
N. G. OF PA.,
BELLEFONTE, June 7, 1880.

Special Orders, No. 15.

An election for officers of the company lately recruited at Bellefonte, Pa., by Amos Mullen and others, to be known as Company "B," Fifth Regiment Infantry, will be held at Bellefonte on Saturday, the 12th day of June, 1880, and will be conducted by Major George F. Harris, Surgeon Fifth Regiment, who is hereby authorized to fix the hour at which the same will open

By order,
Brig. Gen. JAS. A. BEAVER.
D. S. KELLER, Asst. Adjt. General.

Major George F. Harris has addressed the following circular letter to members of the Fencibles residing away from Bellefonte:

BELLEFONTE, Pa., June 7, 1880.

Sir:—In accordance with special orders No. 15, Headquarters 4th Brigade N. G. P., the undersigned will hold an election for officers, and complete the organization of the "Bellefonte Fencibles," a military company to be known as company "B," 5th Regiment N. G. P., in Bellefonte, at 2 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, June 12, 1880, at which time and place you are requested to be present.

Very respectfully,
Your obd't servant,
GEORGE F. HARRIS,
Major and Surgeon 5th Reg't. N. G. P.

We learn that Col. Burchfield, of the Fifth Regiment, with a number of his staff will be present at the election; and as there may be something of a race for the various elective offices, an interesting time may be expected.

We congratulate the Fencibles on their success in obtaining a position in the National Guard. They take the last and only vacancy in the entire division. Since the reorganization of the Guard, and the passage of recent legislation for its benefit, it has grown to its maximum strength. Scores of applications for membership have been refused. The best material in the State has been called from the old-time malitia companies, and the young men of the State, until the National Guard of Pennsylvania has become the peer of the citizen-soldiery of any State in the Union. We offer our congratulations to the Bellefonte Fencibles.

—One hundred pounds of nitro-glycerine and one hundred and fifty pounds of powder were recently discovered in a store-house in Columbia. The owners were promptly fined $25. Columbia can thank her stars that some fellow didn't happen to kick over the glycerine can, as, in that event, nothing would have been left of her but a hole in the ground.

—The murderer, English, is reported to have reached Canada, and can now laugh at his pursuers. If true, it doesn't speak very well for the ability and shrewdness of the police and detectives who were working the case. If he had stolen a loaf of bread, or committed some such crime as that he would probably have been captured long ago.

—On Saturday last, says the Watchman, while two little sons of Abram Baum were playing at "see-saw," one of the little fellows either fell or jumped off, throwing his little brother with considerable force to the ground, breaking his left leg just above the knee. Dr. Dobbins was called in and dressed the injured limb.

—They are digging for silver over at Indian Gap, the scene of the Raber murder, and the Harrisburg Telegraph thinks that if one-half the energy was expended in improving things in that God-forsaken locality, the region might be made fit for people to live in.

—The young men of Millheim are endeavoring to organize a hook and ladder company to aid in extinguishing fires. Their efforts in this direction are commendable, and they should receive the support and encouragement of the citizens.

—What's wrong with the cherry crop in this section? None have appeared in the market yet, notwithstanding they are offered for sale in many towns surrounding us. In Harrisburg they are retailing at four cents a quart.

—Mr. Clarence Williams has resigned his position as bartender at the Bush House. He is a likely young man, and should he succeed in finding other employment will make Bellefonte his permanent home.

—If you want the best pump in the market go to Jas. Harris & Co.'s hardware store and get one with the gum plunger. They are fully guaranteed.

A Veteran Hunter Gone.

Old Bill Long, the veteran hunter and trapper of Clearfield county, and well known by many of the oldest hunters hereabouts, died recently in his 88th year. The Clearfield Republican says of him: "The last fifty years of his life were spent in shooting deer with his rifle, which he did by the hundred. His chief occupation was hunting and trapping. He exhibited to the writer of this article hundreds of scalps of wild cats and foxes. We recollect a time when he carried into our office the scalps of over forty foxer, ten wild cats, seven wolves and two panthers, the work of one campaign. He would slay the foxes and wild cats in the winter when the fur was in the prime, dry the scalps, and in April and May he would make his raid on the wolf dens for their pups, and nearly always succeeded in getting away with them and the male wolf. He never killed a "mammy wolf" except on two occasions, when he was compelled to do so in self-defense. He held that by killing the female he would have a very short crop the next year. The dens were located along Boone or Elk mountains, and along the head waters of Clearfield and Chest creeks, and he seemed to have them as well located as the residence of his neighbors. His escapes from death were frequent and miraculous."

Meeting of the Agricultural Society

The executive committee of the Centre County Agricultural Society met at the office of Clement Dale, Esq., on Saturday afternoon, President E. W. Hale in the chair. Members present: John Rishel, A. V. Miller, Wm. Thompson, Jr., Clement Dale and Wilbur Reeder.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved. On motion of Mr. Dale the chair appointed Clement Dale, John Rishel, Wm. Thompson, Jr., A. Miller and Wilbur Reeder a committee of five to revise premium list.

On motion of Mr. Thompson the chair appointed a committee of two to examine into claims against the Society and report the same at next meeting of committee.

The time for holding the fair for year 1880 was fixed for October 6th, 7th and 8th.

Meeting then adjourned until June 17th at 2 o'clock p. m., when a full attendance of the executive committee is urgently requested.

WILBUR F. REEDER, Secretary.

Sunday School Work.

MR. EDITOR:—You ask me, "How goes your work?" It goes, but not always exactly as I like. It might not be best to have the work go altogether in my way. I should rather rejoice if I could report as Presbyterian all the Sunday-schools I assist in establishing. To insist on this, however, would be simply unchristian in many communities where Christian Union schools alone could flourish. I frequently average over ten miles a day on foot, working on the way. The question is often asked, "How shall we reach the masses?" My answer is, Go to them in the name of the Lord.

This we are endeavoring to do with God's manifest approval, and have little leisure to write about it. Hope to answer your inquiry more fully at some other time.

Cordially yours,
R. CRITTENDEN.

—A contemporary makes the following very sensible suggestions in reference to the census: We would suggest to heads of families that they write out answers to the various questions to be asked by the census taker and leave them at their residences. By this means they will save members of the family some time and trouble. The enumerator will of course have to call during the day, when business men are at their stores and offices, and it will remain for their wives and children to answer the questions propounded. In many cases this cannot be done, except by the head of the family.

—A man by the name of Brooks gave on exhibition of his skill in picking locks on the Diamond Saturday afternoon. He had with him a collection of locks of every description, some of them taken from the hardware stores in town, and with a pocket-knife, one or two pieces of bent wire, and an assortment of toothpicks, went through the whole pile with as much ease as though he had been opening oysters. He is traveling around over the country showing up the defects of the locks now in use and introducing a recently-patented lock, claimed to be burglar proof.

—A rose on an apple tree is surely a rare growth; yet that is what we are enabled to report on authority of Rev. Jacob Morris, of West Salem. On a crab tree in his orchard appeared this spring a fine, full white rose, which was plucked and is now to be seen at this office. It is a case of voluntary hybridization, and a very remarkable one at that.—Greenville Argus.

Obituary.

CAPT. WILLIAM LEVI.

A correspondent at Milesburg sends us the following particulars in regard to the subject of this sketch:

Capt. William Levi, of Milesburg, well known throughout this section, died on Friday morning, June 4th, aged 79 years. Several months since deceased had a stroke of paralysis, affecting the whole of the left side of his body, and closely confining him to his house. He was also afflicted with Bright's disease of the kidneys, from which he was a great sufferer, and which was the direct cause of his death. He endured all his suffering with great fortitude and patience, and calmly resigned himself to the will of Him who ruleth all things wisely. He was a member of the M. E. church for forty years, and an active and intelligent worker in the Sabbath-school which he regularly attended until disabled by disease. The Sabbath-schools of the various churches attended the funeral in a body. Leading in the procession was the M. E. school, of which he was a member, numbering 140 members.

The funeral services were held in the Methodist church Sunday morning, conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Woodcock, and were of the most impressive and solemn interest to the entire audience, which filled the church to its fullest capacity. The remains were interred in the Bellefonte cemetery.

Deceased was married, and leaves a wife and several grown up children. Mrs. Levi is in her eighty-fifth year, and enjoys remarkable good health for one of her age.

The 'Hoppers.

In a drive two or three miles down the Zion road Friday afternoon, we were surprised at the countless number of young grasshoppers that have made their appearance in that vicinity. For fifteen or twenty rods, in some places, the road was alive with them, and when disturbed by a passing team, they would rise a few feet from the ground and fly off in showers in every direction. The fences along the road, near General Beaver's farm, were black with the "varmints" in spots, and rocks and bushes on the edge of the road were also covered. We noticed that they had already begun their destructive work in one wheat field, and from present appearances, unless the invading army changes its course of march, all the wheat between here and Zion will be seriously damaged. Further down the valley the hoppers have appeared in equally large numbers, and have attacked the grain in several localities.

—Cal. Brachbill came up town the other morning smiling all over his face clear down to his neck. Someone asked him if he was going to the Chicago convention, or what was up. He said that he was going to no convention, but that he had a little convention around at his house the night before that was a convention. This didn't seem to give satisfaction, though, and finally he spit 'er out, and here's where the trouble is—Cal is a daddy, and the new arrival is a boy.

—James McCafferty, eldest son of Mr. Alec McCafferty, died Friday morning of consumption, after an illness of several months. This is the fifth death that has occurred in this family, all of consumption, within the last fifteen months.

—Mr. Henry Rothrock, of Benner township, while driving out Bishop street Saturday night, fell from his buggy near Bartruff's carriage works, and was severely cut about the face and neck.

—Go to Harris' hardware store for all reaper and mower repairs and sections. They are headquarters for double harpoon hay forks, scythes, snaths, cradles, forks, &c.

—The work at the reservoir is about finished. The inside walls have been raised four feet, thereby greatly increasing the head of water.

—Ask any person on the street where to get a good cigar, and where does he tell you to go to? Why, to Harry Green's, to be sure.

A Lively Run-Off.

On Friday afternoon the spirited team of bay horses belonging to Mr. Lawrence Brown exercised themselves by a lively run-off, that came very near resulting in the destruction of considerable property for their owner. While backed up to a coal car on the siding at the rear of the depot, the horses were startled by a noise of some kind, and started off in the direction of the coal sheds at a gait that threatened to smash everything to pieces. When the excited animals reached the corner of the shed they made a sharp turn to the right, knocking out one of the posts from under the building and almost overturning the wagon. This did not stop them, however, and they continued on through the sheds at a brisk trot, and would no doubt have demolished the wagon and harness had not the hub of one wheel come in contact with a stout beam that serves as one of the supports beneath the grain elevator. The post was too heavy to be moved from its position, and the horses were brought up with a jerk, which put an end to the race The tongue of the wagon was badly splintered and the running gear considerably damaged. Nobody hurt.

Jersey Butter.

Jersey Butter is all the fashion, and it has become so, mainly because the makers have kept up a uniform color through the year, using artificial color when necessary. Dairymen who wish to be in the fashion must use the Perfected Butter Color made by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington Vt.

—On Thursday evening a passenger on the Philadelphia express, P. R. R., put his head out of the car window just as the train was passing through a cut above Cresson, and was struck by a bowlder with great force. A gash was cut on the side of his face, and his skull badly fractured. The unfortunate man was taken from the train at Cresson by friends, and a company physician from Altoona telegraphed for. His name is Friedhoff, an unmarried man, and a farmer by occupation.

—A number of persons in Lewisburg have been receiving anonymous letters in which threats are made to burn the borough, which has greatly excited the citizens. If the rascals who are indulging in this sort of correspondence are discovered their chances for spending the season in the penitentiary will be good. The law has no respect for such villains.

—General J. S. Brisbin, who is spending a few weeks in town, with his family, gave us a pleasant call on Saturday. The General is an entertaining conversationalist and understands the art of making himself agreeable. He is always welcome to a chair in our sanctum sanctorum.
